Fashion Fights Cancer Model Call

Actress, model and cancer survivor Chaseedaw Giles in partnership with the Prevent Cancer Foundation is looking for six male and female cancer survivor models in the DMV or commutable area to be part of a unique fashion show taking place in summer 2014. The fashion show will feature a live performance by R&B/funk recording artist Deborah Bond and other special guests. Proceeds will benefit the Prevent Cancer Foundation in support of their mission of saving lives through cancer prevention and early detection.

Selected models will also be featured in a Kickstarter Campaign where they will share their survival story and the positive, healthy changes they have incorporated in their daily lives. To apply please submit a head shot and full body shot along with measurements. Professional photos are not necessary. Please also submit a paragraph discussing your cancer survivor story, current aspirations and how you are pursuing them. We are looking for positive, uplifting stories from bold and daring individuals who are pursuing their dreams. Runway coaching will be provided.
